

Love.

Offered, I felt I was starving huddled against the wind.

Let down,

I had lost the ability to speak.

Silence.

One couldn't expect to understand.

Sleep,

I could drink the gold and share.

by J Dean